Description	Majority of the participants were found to be aware about the problem Achieving balance between work and family life has become a major concern for today's workforce. This is particularly true for all, Culture moderates numerous aspects of the work-family interface, such as cultural norms about who will care for children (and who will pay for that care), social policies in place to support families, and work cultures. In low-income countries, the boundaries between family and work-life often blur, parents and extended family most often provide childcare, and in some places, there is a substantial risk that children lack sufficient stimulation to optimize development for a modern world

The constitution replaced the Government of India Act 1935 as the governing document of India, thus turning the nation from a dominion into a republic post its independence from the British Raj in 1947. The constitution was adopted by the Constituent Assembly of India on 26 November 1949 and came into effect on 26 January 1950. Republic Day is commonly associated with parades, political speeches, cultural events and ceremonies, in addition to various other public and private events celebrating the history, government, and traditions of India.

Description	Women and girls represent half of the world's population and therefore also half of its potential. But gender inequality persists everywhere and stagnates social progress. On average, women in the labor market still earn 23 percent less than men globally and women spend about three times as many hours in unpaid domestic and care work as men. It includes increasing a woman's sense of self-worth, her decision-making power, her access to opportunities and resources, her power and control over her own life inside and outside the home, and her ability to effect change. Yet gender issues are not focused on women alone, but on the relationship between men and women in society.
