

5.4.1 There is a registered Alumni Association that contributes significantly to the development of the institution through financial and/or other support services

Close communication between the college and its alumni is made possible via the Alumni Association, which is registered with the institution. Alumni have a unique stake in an institution since their main goal is to see it succeed and get recognition. The Alumni Association was established with the following goals in mind: to facilitate the exchange of opportunities, expertise, and information amongst students, professors, and alumni.

GOALS:

1. To motivate former students to provide guidance to present students about the development of professional abilities.
2. Through the organisation of training programmes including skill development, entrepreneurial development, expert talks, seminars, research, placements, etc., alumni support the growth of the Institute and its students.
3. To provide people a forum on which to discuss scholarly, artistic, and social endeavours.
4. To serve as a conduit for communication on new advancements in the various pharmacy profession fields between academic institutions and industry.
5. To add books on various themes to the college library in order to make it better.
6. Final-year students get guidance from alumni on their projects based on contemporary industrial and technological conditions.
7. An alumnus pays a guest lecture at the institution to engage with the pupils. to enlighten students about the most recent industry needs and to provide them advice for a better career.
8. To plan and assist with the Institute's students' placement activities.
9. To motivate Institute students and Association members to engage in research and development in a variety of sectors, such as computer industrialization.
10. To serve as a mentor to the Institute's students in order to help them develop their character and become decent citizens.
11. To assist and motivate Institute students participating in extracurricular, cultural, and sporting activities. Students who have graduated are promoting these activities.
12. To hold camps for health awareness, blood donation, and eye donation.
13. To lead conversations in groups on different social topics.
14. To support and mentor Institute students engaged in anti-drug, anti-ragging, and other anti-social actions. As a result, via their commitment in both financial and non-financial methods, alumni connectedness greatly contributes to the success of the school.
